Masters.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 16.—This big resort, which is so noted throughout the country for its high moral standard and the fact that there is not a saloon in the place, has a corner on all of the big prize-fighters in the country. Corbett and Fitzsimmons have settled themselves for the season in cottages about five blocks apart, and now that Corbett has signed articles to meet "Kid" McCoy he has brought to town his two trainers, "Jack" McVey and George Green. Lansburg, who has a fight on for next month, is also here training away at Manager "Billy" Brady's cottage. In Loch Arbor, which is located just across Deal Lake, which forms the northern boundary of Asbury Park. The two big fighters are attracting the attention of every one at the resort, and the young women at the hotels show even more interest in them than the young men.

Fitzsimmons is taking affairs very easy. He is not doing any work harder than horseback riding, of which he is very fond, and consequently he is taking on flesh very rapidly. Corbett, however, has started in training very diligently for his coming fight with McCoy. There is a big barn adjoining his eighth avenue cottage, and the interior has been fitted out with a punching bag and all of the appliances that he uses in his work. He is in fine form, and the hardest work that his trainers have to do is to keep him from working too hard. Corbett and Fitzsimmons have not met each other as yet, and if they do happen to meet it is not likely that there will be anything more dangerous exchanged than hard, cold stares.

The big storm which started on Tuesday night and raged at a fierce rate for three days proved a great attraction to the Summer guests, who had never seen what a big blow looked like. Tightly wrapped in big cloaks and makintoshes, many of the young men and women made their way to the beach, and even out to the fishing pier, where they watched the big waves and high surf until it was too dark to see. Some of the more timid ones watched the progress of the big blow from the friendly shelter of the sun parlors, which have proved to be a splendid beach improvement.

Just before the storm broke out there was a fine run of striped bass off shore, and about a dozen of these magnificent fish were taken by amateurs. "Uncle Billy" Brumaker, of Trenton, who is one of the most persistent fishermen here, caught the first one, which tipped the scales at ten pounds. Later he landed an eight-pounder. Proprietor Atkins, of the Ocean Hotel, also landed a big ten-pounder.

Founder Bradley has come out in a very strong protest against the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America, who are holding nightly meetings in the street. Several years ago the Senator welcomed these organizations to town, but at the last meeting of the Council he made a protest against them, stating that he thought they were disturbing the Summer guests.

A crusade has also been started against the "beer arks." It is the regular annual crusade which always starts about this time. The "arks" are black covered wagons, loaded down with cases of beer and whiskey, and, as they pass through the town, those who will may stop them and buy from them. Sometimes an exciting chase takes place between a police officer in one wagon and the driver of the ark. This furnishes a lot of fun for the bystanders. If the driver of the "ark" succeeds in getting out of the town limits before the officer overtakes him he avoids arrest.

The war spirit has even entered into the heads of the dancing masters and masters of ceremony at the hotels, for they are now announcing "Mamie hops," "Santago Germans" and "military dances." Mr. Will Dean, who is manager of amusements at the Brunswick, is planning a national dance. The ballroom will be decorated with the flags of all the nations excepting Spain and France, and special national dances will be given by the young men and women.

Trolley parties are again the rage, and two or three such affairs are given every clear night. The company have set apart a dozen cars for the young people. They are highly decorated and illuminated with dozens of colored lights. The trip is usually made to Pleasure Bay, where the crowd enjoys the fireworks and the electric launches, and at midnight the start is made for home.

Hon. Henry C. Kelsey, for a long time Secretary of the State of New Jersey, is with Mrs. Kelsey at the Hotel Brunswick. Mr. and Mrs. Kelsey had engaged passage on the La Bourgeoise, but did not sail at the last moment on account of an unexpected delay.

AT SHELTER ISLAND.

A Host of People at the Hotels and More Are Coming.

Shelter Island, L. I., July 16.—The hotels are rapidly receiving their full quotas of guests, and it is predicted that by the twentieth of the present month every accommodation will be exhausted. The social season promises to be a brilliant one, the management of the different hotels having prepared an elaborate programme of dances, receptions, concerts and card parties for the entertainment of their guests.

The warm weather has rendered the indulgence of nautical sports particularly suitable, and the beach at Manhasset has teemed daily with large numbers of the Summer colony, who visited it to enjoy the bathing.

Among the latest arrivals at the Manhasset House are: Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Ogden, Miss Belsion, Mr. and Mrs. Francis T. Ingalls Lane, Miss Gertrude Lane, Miss Kate Field Carpenter, Mrs. J. H. Lazarus and family, Miss J. W. Ogden, John B. Manning, George E. Walter, Louis L. Clercy, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Bushnell, Miss Bushnell, Miss McDonald, Miss Van Sann, Mr. and Mrs. W. Gooch, Mrs. Frederick C. Herriek and family and Mrs. H. P. Baldwin.

ATLANTIC CITY FACTS.

The Town's Society Soldiers Don Uniforms and Go to Sea Girt.

YORKERS ARRIVE.

They Lead Germans and Are Conspicuous in Other Festivities.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 16.—To the people and visitors of Atlantic City the past week has been replete with patriotic sentiment, which was fittingly brought to a head during the middle of the week by the departure of the Morris Guards, a well known local military organization, for Camp Sea Girt, where they joined the depleted ranks of the Fourth Regiment of New Jersey Volunteers. Out of less than two hundred members one hundred and thirty-three answered to their country's call.

Socially considered the Morris Guards are to Atlantic City what the Seventh Regiment is to New York, but from a military and patriotic standpoint, though a much smaller organization, the local people have far outshone the New York patriots, whose bravery consisted in fine clothes and in learning new dance steps while forgetting their tactics. Like the Seventh Regiment, the Morris Guards were generally considered a social organization, who wore military clothes merely for the sake of looking pretty. Among the members of the guards were the sons of the wealthiest men in town, all of whom, to a man, gave up luxuriant homes and lives of ease and idleness to fight for their country. Among them also were many young fellows from Philadelphia, sons of rich parents, who have been in the habit of spending several months of the year in Atlantic City, and have succeeded in being admitted to membership of the Morris Guards.

In addition to numerous local organizations and the First Regiment Band, of Philadelphia, which accompanied the volunteers to the railroad station, supplying them with patriotic music on the way, large numbers of the friends of the members of the guards joined the crowds. In fact, everybody in town turned out. It was Atlantic City's first taste of the realities of war. Many tears were shed, and many partings were witnessed, and as a result the resort has lost, temporarily at least, much of its accustomed gaiety.

Among the early New York arrivals who have been especially prominent in the social events of the week were William S. Manning, the well-known stock broker, and Mrs. Manning, who in metropolitan real estate circles. They registered at the St. Charles, where a number of kindred spirits composed of New York society people are quartered for more or less lengthy stays. Mr. Manning assisted Miss Nellie Alger, of Washington, in leading a German in the St. Charles ball room on Thursday evening. The function was largely attended, and scored the success of the season. A large colony of New Yorkers are at present enjoying the luxurious accommodations of the Hotel Rudolf. Prominent among these are E. J. De May and F. E. Fray and wife, the former being a well-known horseman, and the latter being prominent in New York's innermost society circles. Mr. Fray was last year one of the most liberal patrons of the New York Horse Show. During the past week the Rudolf has been most prominent in the social life of the town, two balls and three concerts, all of them well attended, being placed to its credit.

The New York colony at the Seaside is composed of Mrs. A. L. Brown, Mrs. E. T. Hawkins, Bronson H. Hawkins, Edward T. Hawkins and S. T. Warfield.

Dr. Kohler, the well-known Gotham physician, is spending the week at the seashore, accompanied by his wife.

Arrivals at the Windsor from New York this week are the following: John T. McCoy, Miss West and sister, P. Bentor, W. H. Le Tetri, George A. Castor, T. B. Kinney, Francis B. Arnold, St. Leger Patron and J. B. Newton.

A. F. Searing, of New York, is registered at the Luray for a week or so.

Edwin J. Concaman and C. O. Watkin arrived at the Luray early in the week and secured accommodations for a two weeks' stay. They are well-known New York business men.

Mrs. Frank Stewart Osborne is among the well-known guests at the Garden Hotel. Mrs. Osborne is well connected with Gotham society.

Among the large number of guests at the Rudolf are the following New Yorkers: Samuel H. Newburger, H. P. Stevens and wife, James T. Hughes, I. Cadmus, T. N. Lynch and wife, J. W. D. Kelly and wife, F. A. Lewis, F. S. Sweet, F. H. Warsaw, Mrs. Warsaw, P. Frank, Charles Rosenbaum, George T. Gould and wife, P. B. Finley.

New Yorkers at the St. Charles are Miss K. L. Alken, James B. Aaron, F. B. McNeil, Curtis Smith, H. S. Stevens, Mrs. S. Stevens, R. L. Thomas and J. G. Warner.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS.

The Weather Record for the Week is a Notable One at This Resort.

Atlantic Highlands, July 16.—Variable weather, from midsummer heat to September's cool breezes, has made the record of the past few days. Yet the Summer visitors continue to come in increasing numbers, and seem to be perfectly contented with the weather as it comes. Cool nights induce good sleep and rest, with a happy awakening and a good appetite. The cool air is bracing. Sifting heat is evaporating and only to be counteracted by liberal draughts of soda water, many spoonfuls of ice cream, with the accompaniment of a fan in incessant motion.

Sheriff Heller, of Hudson County, has rented the Captain O. H. D. cottage on Highland avenue. He was here recently, accompanied by ex-Sheriff Bob Davis, and were guests of the Columbus Hotel.

Camp Flemington has been opened again at Hilton Park. There are a score of tents erected on the esplanade overlooking Sandy Hook Bay. Dr. Ewing L. Williams, J. L. Smith and John I. Green are among the victors.

Among the recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen W. Sears, at Portland Heights, were Mr. and Mrs. H. Williams, Miss A. Carroll Williams, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. V. ler, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Robinson and M. H. Foran, of the auxiliary department of the P. O., all of New York.

George B. Tucker's Andrews Hillside Hotel has entered into a new era of prosperity under Mrs. Tucker's management. The hotel is well filled, and here are some of the guests:

Mr. Frank Kiermans and the Misses Kiermans, of New York, will spend a few weeks at the Bay View.

The Weir, of Harlem, well known among the gentlemen pugilistic fraternity, spent a few days there when not out fishing in the bay, where he caught plenty of weak and strong fish. Mr. Weir will go to Oceanic for a time to train for his bout with "Spider" Kelley next October.

The Bay View Hotel, conducted by its new lessees, Messrs. Katuna and Pelletti, has been the centre of attraction. Among the Summer residents there are Messrs. J. and A. Greenbaum, of New York.

Albert Winfield, County Clerk, of Paterson; William and Deacon Lookwood, also of Paterson; William F. Cunningham, Thomas Hoyt and family, Spencer Thomas and family, John F. Ryan, of Brooklyn; R. Showfield and wife, Mrs. L. Wintzer and daughter, L. Ritter and wife, Otto Kupfer and family, Miss Clara Ritter, Edward L. Eicke, Jr., of Hoboken; Frank Dexter, Mrs. Frank Dexter, Earl Dexter, Alan Dexter, Oscar Hoppe and wife, Edward J. Shalvey and wife, Charles F. Lieberman and wife, Gus Lowenstein and wife, Mr. Feuerherd and family, Conrad D. Orth, Mrs. C. D. Orth, John C. Orth, C. F. Hallerman and wife, William Wilsendanger, Miss E. Varghan, E. O. Thompson, Jr., H. R. De Milt and wife, Miss De Milt, L. Whiting, Robert A. Welcke and family and George De Milt, of New York.

Recent visitors registered at N. Y. Y. Club, Station 8, on the pier, include Louis M. Josephthal, U. S. N. paymaster, U. S. S. Nabast; Miss Carpenter, Miss Gardner, Miss Hilda Gardner, Miss Humphreys, Miss Helen Humphreys, Hugh Miller, Esq.; Bentley Gardner, Langdon Humphrey, New York; H. B. Sargeant, Springfield; W. L. Marston, C. Lord, Miss C. Timpon, A. Stanley and others, of the sloop Irene and Surprise.

The Windsor—Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Farnham, F. J. Farnham, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Goodrich, B. F. Edsall, Miss B. F. Thompson, New York.

The Oresson—W. Swolem, Misses Lillie, Katie, Stella and May Swolem, Mrs. W. Haughey, J. King, Miss E. O'Brien, Miss M. Deasy, J. Rooney, I. L. and T. J. Brennan, New York; Miss C. D'Arcy, Miss Mildred Edmunds, Brooklyn.

Grand View—Rev. Edward Skagen, London, England; Chas. K. Matthews, Boston, Mass.; H. P. Brennan, New York; John K. Donovan, Johnsbury, R. I.; M. A. Kilpatrick and wife, New York; J. B. Grice, Newark, N. J.; H. P. Potter, Boston, Mass.

Lockwood House—Mr. Nathan and wife, James H. Root, Jr., Charles W. Austin, J. W. Anderson, Virginia Austin, Grace A. Higley, Florence F. Elger, James Elger, William F. Halsey, New York; James Edgar, Hoboken; F. H. Cluff, W. H. Cluff, Leeds Powell, Mrs. Henry E. Meyer, Brooklyn.

The Portland—E. J. Snow, wife and two children, Jno. Cullighan, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Nordlinger, maid and child, Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Peck, male and child, Miss Katie F. Davis, Miss Ella Davis, A. Guest, O. W. Osstrum, W. B. Putney, Jr., George F. Bowerman, Ernest H. Wands, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Missing, New York; Miss Swanstrom, F. A. Norcross, J. M. Baum, Maurice Wright, Brooklyn; W. K. Williams, Philadelphia; Mr. Cooper, Jacksonville, Ill.

GAYETY AT AVON.

A Regatta is Among the Events Scheduled for the Future.

Avon-by-the-Sea, N. J., July 16.—Summer gayeties are at their height at this delightful little resort at the mouth of Shark River. The hotel guests and cottagers have taken very kindly to yachting since the beginning of the season, and it is possible that a regatta will be given the latter part of the month, in which all of the yachts will be sailed by women. Among the fair ones who have gained considerable fame for their dexterity in handling the helm and in giving instructions to the sailors is Mrs. W. D. Bussett, of London, England, who is a guest at the Oxford Hotel this season. A few afternoons ago she gave a large sailing party on the yacht Nora J and tendered her guests a supper at the hotel upon her return.

The guests of the Oxford engaged in a most enjoyable unchre party last Wednesday evening. The prizes were given by the management of the hotel and the winners were as follows: The first ladies' prize—Mrs. A. W. Schuyler, of Nutley, N. J.; Miss Smith of Roselle, N. J. The first gentlemen's prize—Mr. R. D. Earle, president of the Hudson County Bank, Jersey City; second, Hon. George N. Porter, of Newark, a prominent member of the New Jersey Legislature.

The ladies stopping at the Buckingham have gone into golf with great enthusiasm. They held a tournament on the Avon Links Wednesday afternoon, which attracted a large crowd of guests from the other hotels and members of the cottage colony. The honors of the day went to Miss Catherine Forshay, of Brooklyn, with Miss Grace Dunham a close second.

Mrs. Sidney S. Ward and Miss Ward, of East Orange, are guests of the Avon Inn.

The Avon Inn numbers among its arrivals of the week Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Place, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gerard, Sidney D. Vice, D. J. Midbury and Mrs. F. A. Bassler, E. P. Hathaway, H. P. Danella and Charles F. Bowne, of New York.

Other guests of the Buckingham are Mr. and Mrs. John R. Beggie, George G. Crane and family, S. T. Regan and family, C. J. Norris, C. C. Halsey, Edward Roberts, S. Lichtenstein and family and Alexander B. Gulick, of New York.

There is dissatisfaction in the tenting colony, that part of it which occupies Auditorium Circle. This block of tents encloses the Auditorium on three sides, and is so near the building that the occupants of the tents can hear all the sermons and the concerts for which admission fees are charged without leaving their tent doors.
The camp officials say that too many of the tenters are taking advantage of the location of their quarters to cheat the association out of what is due it in the way of contributions to the collection box. It is rumored that the camp fathers are considering the advisability of raising the rent of the tents in the Circle, but the occupants insist that they will not pay any additional tax.

The dissatisfaction which has been prevailing during the past week among the members of the "old timers" in Ocean Grove continues unabated. The whole trouble has arisen on account of the aumentous and important changes which the new management of the Camp Meeting Association has made in the working force of the camp services. The old standbys, who have been attending the Ocean Grove camp ever since it originated in a ten by ten foot tent twenty-eight years ago, complain because some of the old leaders have been replaced by new men. Professor John R. Sweeney, musical director, who has helped tune so many thousand penitents into the fold, no longer flings the baton over the Auditorium altar. The old camp

York, arrived at the La Pierre arrangements for the Summer school of theology, which is to meet here in August and of which he is dean.

the faculty of the Auburns (Mass.) Seminary, is spending a month at Dr. Stark's.

rived here a few days ago.

Rev. S. E. Simonson, who is pastor of the Bethel Norwegian Mission, Brooklyn, has

Rev. George Elliott, D. D., pastor of the Spring Garden Methodist Church, Philadelphia, is with his family at the Sheldon House.

The same hotel is entertaining Rev.
Julius E. Grammar, D. D., of Baltimore.
Dr. Grammar takes a prominent part in the theological conventions to be held on the camp grounds during the Summer.

The New Arbuton recently registered Thomas C. Hoge, a retired lawyer, of Brooklyn.

Professor O. H. J. Schadt, A. M., arrived at the National from Philadelphia a few days ago.

Professor Frank R. Roberson, the traveller and lecturer, who is giving a series of illustrated addresses at the Chautauqua As-
